If you have an application pending (i.e. progression or exclusion rules or any late applications) with the LPAB, please do not delay your online registration with the LEC and access to the online facilities and materials. Simply enter today's date in the “date enrolment lodged’ field to register online. Once your application has been processed by the LPAB, you may then contact the LEC to update your online registration if the outcome differs.

STEP 2: The login screen will appear and you will need to enter your family name in title case sensitive (i.e. "Young", not "young" or "YOUNG"), your six-digit LPAB Student Number and date of birth (DD/MM/YYYY). Press “Login”.

STEP 3: You will now be taken to the LEC Registration Form – see over the page.

- ALL students must register online with the Law Extension Committee each semester (Winter 24: between 15-26 April 2024).
- You will need to update your address and contact details (if applicable) and enter the subjects for which you have enrolled with the LPAB for the current semester.
- LECTURE ATTENDENCE MODE: when you register you will need to select between Sydney Metro and Regional lecture attendance.

Students who live in the Sydney Metro area should register as Metro students and attend weekly evening lectures in person on the main campus of the University of Sydney.

Students who live outside Sydney, or who cannot attend weekly lectures due to other commitments (for example, a police officer who work shifts), should register as Regional. Regional students will be able to tune in to the live lecture via Zoom.

IMPORTANT NOTE: All students will have access to lecture recordings at four points during the semester to allow for revision.

ALL STUDENTS, wherever they live, are expected to attend the two Weekend Schools on campus in person. Recordings of these sessions are not provided.

STEP 4: All students

- Please read the student Code of Conduct (which is available on our website) before signing the declaration at the bottom of the registration form. By registering, you agree to be bound by the code and other LEC policies and procedures.

Step 5: UniKey Account Information

NEW STUDENTS – Please set up your UNIKEY BEFORE the Enrolment Period opens.

All current students will require a UniKey account to access the resources provided through the Law Library and on-campus Wi-Fi.

New LPAB/LEC students will receive an email containing their UniKey credentials. Your UniKey is an 8-digit code in the format of ABCD1234.

Passwords

Once you receive this email you will need to follow the directions to set up your password. You will then also need to set up multi-factor authentication to allow you to log in to university systems.

Please note that the LEC does not have a record of that password. If you forget your password or have any problems with this process, you should telephone the ICT Help Desk on 1800 SYD UNI (1800 793 864). Their business hours are from 8am to 9pm. Passwords cannot be reset by email.

Existing students with UniKey accounts?

Existing students will have their UniKey account re-validated once they have completed their online LEC registration.
